Nevada law prohibits concealed carry in certain locations, including but not limited to:

- Federal facilities and buildings
- Schools and school zones
- Courtrooms and government offices
- Private property where firearms are banned by signage

The state follows a “stand your ground” policy, meaning there is no duty to retreat if confronted in a place where the individual has the right to be. However, the use of force must always be proportional and justified under the circumstances.

Permit Issuance and Renewal

Applicants must meet eligibility requirements, complete a firearms safety course, and pass the Nevada CCW test.
