Time Management

Effective time management ensures all questions receive adequate attention. Candidates should pace themselves, allocating roughly one minute per question, and avoid spending excessive time on difficult items.

Answering Strategies

Approaches to answering multiple-choice questions include:

- Eliminating obviously incorrect options first
- Considering all answer choices before selecting one
- Being cautious of absolutes like “always” or “never” in answer options
- Trusting initial instincts unless clear evidence suggests otherwise

These strategies reduce errors and increase the likelihood of selecting correct answers.
