Understanding Predicate Nouns and Adjectives

To effectively utilize a predicate nouns and adjectives worksheet, it is important to first understand what these grammatical components are. Predicate nouns, also known as predicate nominatives, are nouns that follow linking verbs and rename or identify the subject of the sentence. Predicate adjectives, on the other hand, are adjectives that follow linking verbs and describe the subject. Both play a critical role in sentence construction by providing additional information about the subject through the predicate.

Definition of Predicate Nouns

Predicate nouns function to rename the subject of the sentence. They usually follow linking verbs such as "is," "are," "was," and "were." For example, in the sentence "She is a teacher," the word "teacher" is a predicate noun that renames the subject "She."

Definition of Predicate Adjectives

Predicate adjectives describe the subject and also follow linking verbs. They provide descriptive information about the subject's qualities or states. For instance, in the sentence "The sky is blue," the adjective "blue" is a predicate adjective that describes the subject "The sky."
