Grammar Focus: Comparatives and Superlatives

A significant portion of realidades 2 capítulo 6a mi equipo es mejor is dedicated to mastering the use of comparatives and superlatives in Spanish. These grammatical structures enable learners to compare teams, players, and performances effectively.

Comparative Structures

Comparatives in Spanish are formed by placing más (more) or menos (less) before an adjective, followed by que (than). For example:

- Mi equipo es más fuerte que el otro. (My team is stronger than the other.)
- Ella es menos rápida que su compañera. (She is less fast than her teammate.)

Irregular comparative forms such as mejor (better) and peor (worse) are also emphasized, as in:

- Este equipo es mejor que el anterior. (This team is better than the previous one.)
- Su defensa es peor este año. (Their defense is worse this year.)

Superlative Constructions

Superlatives express the highest or lowest degree of a quality. In Spanish, superlatives are often formed by using the definite article + más or menos + adjective, such as:

- Ella es la jugadora más rápida del equipo. (She is the fastest player on the team.)
- Este es el partido menos emocionante que he visto. (This is the least exciting game I have seen.)

The irregular superlative forms mejor (best) and peor (worst) are also covered:

- Este es el mejor equipo de la liga. (This is the best team in the league.)
- Fue la peor derrota en la historia del club. (It was the worst defeat in the club's history.)
