Common Soldier of the Month Board Questions

Soldier of the month board questions often revolve around fundamental military knowledge and soldier skills. These questions test a soldier's grasp of Army policies, procedures, and leadership concepts. Common areas include Army values, customs and courtesies, rank insignia, and physical fitness standards. Additionally, soldiers may be asked about military history, first aid, and basic soldier tasks relevant to their Military Occupational Specialty (MOS).

Army Values and Regulations

Understanding the Army's core values and regulations is key to answering many soldier of the month board questions. Soldiers should be familiar with the seven Army values—Loyalty, Duty, Respect, Selfless Service, Honor, Integrity, and Personal Courage—and be able to explain their significance. Knowledge of key Army regulations, such as AR 600-20 (Army Command Policy) and FM 7-22 (Army Physical Readiness Training), is also frequently tested.

Military Customs and Courtesies

Questions about customs and courtesies assess a soldier's respect for military tradition and protocol. This includes knowledge of saluting procedures, flag etiquette, proper wear of the uniform, and appropriate behavior during ceremonies. These questions ensure soldiers uphold the professionalism expected in the Army.

Physical Fitness and Health

Soldier of the month board questions may include topics on physical fitness standards, including the Army Physical Fitness Test (APFT) or the Army Combat Fitness Test (ACFT). Soldiers should understand the components of these tests, scoring criteria, and how to maintain physical readiness. Additionally, questions might touch on nutrition, injury prevention, and first aid basics.

Categories of Questions on the Board

Soldier of the month boards are comprehensive and cover various categories to evaluate a soldier's overall competence. These categories help board members assess whether a soldier is prepared for greater responsibility and leadership roles.

Leadership and Ethics

Leadership is a fundamental component of the soldier of the month board. Questions often focus on leadership principles, ethical decision-making, and how soldiers handle challenges or conflicts. Candidates might be asked to describe leadership styles or explain how they would motivate a team under stress.

Army History and Traditions

Knowledge of Army history and traditions is a common category on soldier of the month boards. Soldiers may be quizzed on significant battles, famous military leaders, and the evolution of Army branches and units. This knowledge reflects a soldier's connection to the Army's heritage and esprit de corps.

Military Occupational Specialty (MOS) Proficiency

Boards often include questions related to the soldier's MOS to evaluate job-specific knowledge and skills. These questions test technical competence, understanding of equipment, and the ability to perform essential tasks related to the soldier's role within their unit.
