Understanding the Working Genius Model

The working genius model is a framework that categorizes six distinct types of working genius, each representing a unique way individuals contribute to projects and problem-solving. Developed to enhance workplace productivity, the model helps clarify why certain tasks come naturally to some people while others struggle. By identifying these types, individuals gain insight into their strengths and how they can complement others within a team environment.

The Six Types of Working Genius

Each working genius corresponds to a specific phase in the work process, from ideation to implementation and completion. The six types are:

- Genius of Wonder: The ability to ponder possibilities and question the status quo.
- Genius of Discernment: The talent for evaluating ideas and making sound judgments.

- Genius of Galvanizing: The skill to rally and motivate others toward action.
- Genius of Enablement: The capacity to provide support and assistance to move projects forward.
- Genius of Tenacity: The drive to push projects to completion and ensure results.
- Genius of Invention: The creativity to develop new ideas and solutions.

Benefits of the Working Genius Free Assessment

Taking a working genius free assessment offers several advantages for individuals and organizations. By uncovering natural talents and areas of potential growth, the assessment promotes self-awareness and more effective teamwork.

Improved Self-Awareness

Understanding one's working genius fosters greater self-knowledge, enabling individuals to focus on tasks that align with their strengths. This leads to increased job satisfaction and reduced frustration caused by working outside one's natural abilities.

Enhanced Team Dynamics

Teams benefit from knowing each member's working genius types, as it facilitates better task delegation and collaboration. When team members appreciate each other's strengths, communication improves, and productivity increases.

Optimized Role Alignment

Employers can use assessment results to align roles and responsibilities with employees' innate talents. This strategic alignment boosts performance, reduces turnover, and cultivates a positive work environment.
