Core Beliefs and Religious Principles

The World Mission Society Church of God rules are deeply rooted in its distinctive theological framework. Central to its belief system is the acknowledgment of God the Mother alongside God the Father, a doctrine that sets it apart from mainstream Christianity. This dual existence of God emphasizes the nurturing and life-giving aspects of divinity.

God the Mother and God the Father

Members are required to believe in both God the Father and God the Mother, reflecting the church's interpretation of biblical scripture. This belief shapes many of the church's practices and is considered essential for salvation. The church teaches that God the Mother was revealed in the last days to complete the spiritual understanding of believers.

The Second Coming and Salvation

Another key principle is the anticipation of the Second Coming of Christ. The World Mission Society Church of God rules emphasize preparation for this event through adherence to the teachings and commandments delivered by the church's leaders. Salvation is viewed as attainable through faith in both God the Father and God the Mother combined with observance of the church's laws.

Worship Practices and Ritual Observances

Worship within the World Mission Society Church of God follows specific rituals and observances that are integral to its identity. These practices are designed to honor God the Mother and God the Father and to reinforce the spiritual discipline of members.

Sabbath Observance

The church observes the Sabbath on Saturday, considering it a sacred day for rest and worship. Members are expected to abstain from work and secular activities during this time to focus on spiritual renewal and community worship.

Feasts and Holy Days

Several annual feasts are celebrated according to the church's interpretation of biblical festivals. These include the Passover, the Feast of Unleavened Bread, the Pentecost, the Feast of Trumpets, the Day of Atonement, and the Feast of Tabernacles. Participation in these feasts is mandatory and viewed as a way to commemorate God's promises and salvation history.

Baptism and Holy Communion

Baptism is performed as an initiation rite, signifying purification and entry into the spiritual family. Holy Communion is regularly observed as a remembrance of Christ's sacrifice and the new covenant established by God the Mother and God the Father.

Community Conduct and Ethical Guidelines

Adherence to ethical and moral conduct is a cornerstone of the World Mission Society Church of God rules. Members are expected to live lives that reflect their faith and the teachings of the church, promoting harmony within the community and society at large.

Moral Standards and Personal Behavior

The church enforces strict guidelines on honesty, integrity, and modesty. Members are encouraged to avoid behaviors such as lying, stealing, and any form of immorality. The rules promote a lifestyle of purity and respect in both private and public spheres.

Dress Code and Appearance

While there is no rigid uniform, modest dress is strongly recommended to express humility and respect during worship and daily life. Members often wear simple, clean, and conservative clothing, especially when attending church services and events.

Conflict Resolution and Forgiveness

The church advocates for peaceful conflict resolution based on biblical teachings. Forgiveness and reconciliation are emphasized to maintain unity and love within the congregation. Members are encouraged to resolve disputes promptly and with grace.

Membership Responsibilities and Evangelism

Being a member of the World Mission Society Church of God involves active participation and responsibility. The church rules outline the duties expected of believers to sustain the faith community and expand its reach globally.

Evangelism and Outreach

Members are tasked with spreading the gospel and inviting others to learn about the church's teachings. Evangelism is considered a vital mission and is conducted through various means, including personal testimony, public events, and community service.

Attendance and Participation

Regular attendance at worship services, Sabbath gatherings, and church events is mandatory. Participation in volunteer activities and church projects is also encouraged to foster a strong, supportive community.

Financial Contributions and Support

Members are expected to support the church financially according to their ability. Contributions fund the church's missionary work, facilities, and charitable activities worldwide. Financial stewardship is viewed as an expression of faith and gratitude.

Family and Social Life within the Church

The World Mission Society Church of God places significant emphasis on family values and social harmony. The church rules encourage members to cultivate healthy relationships and raise children in accordance with biblical teachings.

Marriage and Family Life

Marriage is regarded as a sacred covenant, and couples are encouraged to build strong, loving homes centered on faith. The church provides guidance on marital roles, parenting, and family responsibilities to nurture spiritual growth within the household.

Youth Education and Activities

Youth programs and educational activities are integral to the church's mission. These initiatives aim to instill the church's values in younger generations and prepare them for active roles within the community.

Community Service and Social Responsibility

Members are encouraged to participate in community service projects that reflect the church's commitment to compassion and social welfare. Acts of charity and volunteerism are seen as practical expressions of faith and obedience to God's commandments.
